

Dear Parents/Carers,

It has come to our attention that some of our students and students in other schools may have received a video of two very young children performing a sexual act with each other. The police are aware of the issue. We believe the video has been sent via Snapchat and therefore could end up being accessed by many other students. The source of the video is currently unknown and the identity of the children in the video are not known.

To avoid any student potentially breaking the Sexual offences Act 2003 (It is an offence to possess, distribute, show and make indecent images of children) we advise that you notify your child that should they receive anything that may be an indecent image or video they should report it to you and delete the image or video in front of you. Under no circumstances should any image or video of this nature be saved to their devices or sent by any means to other people or devices.

Should you need further advice or support please go to www.ceop.police.uk (Child Exploitation and Online Protection Command). Here you can make a report or view guidance.

Yours faithfully

Martin Coulson
